Byrd Party In Plea For Immediate Aid

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Thrill seeking does not seem to be confined to those outside prison walls. Reeling convicts have been worrying guards at San Quentin prison for some time. They attempted to trace the origin of the contraband believed to be responsible for the unsteady legs. Then a guard discovered the wherefor. Prisoners who wished to "get a thrill" grabbed hold of a fast revolving shaft and hung on until they were quite dizzy.

And after all they're just naughty boys. Who hasn't spun around on his heels in the days of his youth until the whole countryside seemed to be topsy turvy?

A young lady motorist paid $55 recently in this city to discover that it is illegal to drive at the rate of 60 miles an hour. The fair motorist was surprised to learn that such a thing as an operator's license is essential in this state. She's trying to get one now.

Which reminds us that if you haven't the plates on the bus so far you had better get busy. You have seven days left to get them at the bargain price of $3. After that they will set you back $6.

It isn't what you say so much it's the way you say it that counts. That's what John P. Murphy, foreman of the San Francisco grand jury thinks. Murphy in company with hundreds of others heard the lines of "Bad Babies" read in police court. The police court jury acquitted the players and producers on a charge of producing an improper show. Murphy contends that the actions which go with the lines in the actual production put an entirely different complexion on the whole thing. He promised that the grand jury would investigate the show. In the meantime the box office is cashing in on the publicity.

There are some brave people left in this world. Take Miss Denise Hughes, financial expert and member of the Oakland Soroptimist club who threw a bombshell into the midst of the Berkeley Soroptimist club recently when she said that women lied more easily, evaded obligations more readily and were generally more dishonest than men.

THREE JUMP INTO PATH OF CARS

Two men lost their lives and a third is near death in the Southern Pacific hospital in San Francisco following an accident on the Southern Pacific right of way near Crockett early yesterday afternoon.

Andres Olmos, 25 of Tormey was instantly killed and Luis Arrillo, 26, Tormey, died a few hours later in an ambulance which was carrying him from Martinez to the San Francisco hospital. Juan Gallo, 25 of Tormey, was seriously injured and not expected to live through the night at the hospital.

According to officials the men working on a section crew stepped from in front of a westbound train into the path of an eastbound flyer. The westbound train No. 49 was late and it is believed the men miscalculated the time of arrival of No. 56 which tore into the crew at full speed.

The engineer of No. 56 brought his train to a grinding stop and the dead and injured were put on board. Dr. J. M. McCullogh was picked up at Crockett and gave treatment to the injured men.

News of the accident was telephoned ahead to Martinez and an ambulance was at the station to meet it. After the two injured men had been given treatment there they were started for the Southern Pacific hospital in San Francisco. Arrillo died while the ambulance was passing through Oakland. The body was turned over to the Alameda county coroner. The ambulance continued to the hospital with Gallo who is reported to be suffering from a fractured skull and severe body lacerations. All of the men resided at Tormey.

According to Juan Jose, a member of the section crew, on which the dead and injured men were working the attention of all the men was directed toward the westbound train and that none of them saw the onrushing eastbound engine until it was practically on top of them. Several other members of the crew had narrow escapes as the train dashed by.

TOWN SAVED FROM FLAMES

SEATTLE, Jan. 23—(U.P.)—The little community of Cedar Falls was safe tonight after a 24-hour battle with a fire that flared out of a frozen forest to the edge of the town.

Reports received by the Seattle Power Company said the unceasing efforts of fire fighters saved the community after flames had destroyed two ranch homes and endangered the schoolhouse and postoffice.

Low temperatures and a frozen water supply greatly hindered efforts of railroad crews. A tank car was hurried to the scene from Seattle, along with several city fire trucks.

The flames started in Seattle's watershed and a brisk wind carried them on both sides of the road between Cedar Falls and North Bend. Garages at both settlements were destroyed.

CHARGES FLY IN NEW YORK WET CLEANUP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—(U.P.)—The liquor situation in and around New York City was stirred up by the Anti-saloon league today.

The dry organization started the rumpus, many suspected to offset the continued wet campaign on the floors of Congress. Apparently the campaign will be successful for an investigation of the entire New York customs organization was launched, and the treasury and justice department prohibition leaders immediately went into a series of excited huddles over the situation.

In addition, another situation was brewing over Broadway in the form of confidential information concerning enforcement irregularities, which has been submitted to Senator Borah, the dry champion.

MEXICO IN OPEN BREAK WITH RUSS

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 23.—UP—Acting Foreign Minister Genaro Estrada announced today Mexico has broken relations with Soviet Russia.

The act resulted from anti-Mexican demonstrations by Communists recurrent recently at the Mexican embassies in Washington, Buenos Aires and Rio De Janeiro, it was explained.

These Red demonstrations were fomented by Moscow, Estrada declared in an official statement, which asserted the attacks were but part of other manifestations of unfriendliness toward Mexico.

Embassy Attacked

Outbreaks during which Mexican embassys have been attacked by alleged communists have occured with increasing frequency in the United States and South America. It was believed the immediate cause for the severance of relations was an attack by 40 communists on the Mexican embassy in Rio De Janerio on Tuesday, shouting "down with Mexico; Mexico is sold to the clericals and north American imperialism."

An effort to round up belligerent communists in Mexico was begun several days ago.

After referring to the demonstations before the Mexican embassys, Estrade's statement said:

"The Mexican government knows perfectly well this propaganda against our institutions and the National revolution has been prepared and directed by Russia.

Envoy Leaves

"It is also known that the communist groups — directing propaganda—did not work independently, because every political organization of that country is subject to the Soviet government."

The foreign minister announced the Mexican minister at Moscow already has departed accompanied by the entire legation staff with the exception of one secretary who is remaining in charge of the archives.

Estrada declined to say whether any action was contemplated regarding the pass-ports of the Soviet envoy here assuming the latter fails to depart voluntarily.

WASHINGTON NOT INFORMED OF BREAK

'RELATIVITY' LAUDED BY DELEGATES TO PARLEY

LONDON, Jan. 23—(U.P.)—The five naval powers laid their cards on the table today, but they used a courtesy deck, all trumps and no figures.

They all said they believed in "relativity," meaning the size of their fleets depended on those of the other powers in a sort of sliding scale. The inference was that each nation would be inclined to reduce if the others did, but only one chief delegate, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson of the United States, said so is as many words. His statement was:

"If this conference can find a way by which a general reduction can be secured, our own navy can likewise be reduced."

Tardieu Speaks

Premier Andre Tardieu of France pointed to the need of political security, saying French naval requirements "depend most particularly on the fact of knowing whether, in case of conflict, the country can depend on herself only or whether international collaboration has been organized against an aggressor."

With this statement he maintained the French thesis that the League of Nations' covenant, or a Kellogg pact with "teeth" in it, must furnish the background for any naval agreement.

He stressed that France needs a strong navy to protect tremendous coast lines and huge colonial possessions, the extent of which he enumerated.

Wants Reduction

Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, on the other hand, said navies should not relate so

ICE PERILS SOUTH POLE EXPLORERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—UP—The ice of the Antarctic closing in on Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his exploration party, caused the state department today to ask Great Britain and Norway to save them.

Acting Secretary of State Cotton cabled Ambassador Charles G. Dawes at London and the American legation at Oslo, requesting that whaling ships of these two countries now in the vicinity of Little America, be instructed to proceed to the assistance of the Byrd expedition. Byrd reported that Captain Vermelimaster of one of the Norwegian whalers, had refused to aid him unless authorized to do so by his owners.

Cotton dispatched the cables at the request of Dr. Gilbert S. Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society and Capt. H. E. Railey, backers of the Byrd expedition.

Byrd is unable to face another season in the Antarctic his backers said, because of lack of food and equipment.

RACE RIOTERS UNDER CONTROL

WATSONVILLE, Jan. 23—(U.P.)—Peace officers from two counties and state traffic police were available here tonight to prevent another uprising between Filipinos and whites. One death early today has been attributed to the rioters and a number have suffered minor injuries.

The first outbreak was Sunday night. Stones and fists were the only missles used. There were a few scattered skirmishes reported Monday and Tuesday night. The discharge of a rifle fired into the air was said to have started a general battle Wednesday night.

Early today the body of Fermen Tobera, 22, was found in a bunkhouse of a ranch six miles from here with a bullet through his heart.

Troubles between the two races has been caused by labor questions and the operation of a Filipino night club, at which white girls were employed as entertainers.

Locke Paddon, brother of the owner, refused to close the club and stones were thrown in an effort to force the Filipinos out of town.

Two sheriffs, Carl H. Abbot of Monterey county and Nick Sinnott of Santa Cruz county were asked to come here with deputies.

The suit was filed against the city, chief of police, city councilmen, other officials of Richmond and the Parr-Richmond Terminal corporation by the old Richmond Terminal corporation.

Argued last September by the Richmond attorneys, the demurrer was based on the contention that the Richmond Terminal corporation had failed to show in its complaint that it had any cause for damages against the city or the Parr corporation.

The decision rendered by the judge means that unless the plaintiff corporation can produce a

POSSE CLOSE TO HIDING PLACE

SAN RAFAEL, Jan. 23.—UP—A posse was encamped in the hills back of Point Reyes tonight waiting until dawn to close in on two bank robbers they believed they had trapped.

The bandits were presumed to be those who robbed a branch of the Bank of Italy at Fairfax of $2500 today.

They had been pursued to the hilly region by Leslie Tracy, deputy sheriff.

Hills Surrounded

The deputy felt it would be risky to send his men into a dense wooded section after dark and so he had them surround the locality and planned to advance at daybreak.

Theory of the officers that the men they had chased were the robbers was bolstered by discovery of a stolen automobile and a roll of bills totaling $400.

So close did they follow the fleeing pair that the bandits had to abandon their machine and in climbing through a barbed wire fence the roll of money was lost.

Car Stolen

License plates on the automobile they used had been issued to Edna L. Enmir of Sacramento, while the engine number was of a machine that was stolen in San Francisco last September.

One of the robbers entered the bank today while the other stayed outside in the car. The man on the inside asked that his check be cashed and when asked for identification drew a revolver. He locked E. W. Hiltebrand, assistant manager and Miss Perina Arbini a clerk, in the vault and escaped with the money.

The three Contra Costa county men asserted today that they were unable to state what might result from the parley with the state department executive scheduled for Feb. 13.

At this time charges levelled against the institution will be discussed.

COUNTY EXPENSES WITHIN BUDGET SET FOR THIS YEAR

On Dec. 31, 1929, Contra Costa county completed the first half of its 1929-1930 fiscal year.

Figures submitted to the Contra Costa Unit of the California Taxpayers' Association by County Auditor A. N. Sullenger show the following expenditures for the past six months.

|---|---|
| General County Expenditures | $846,851.20 |
| School Expenditures | 1,169,399.95 |
| Total Expenditures | $2,016,251.15 |

Total expenditures to Dec. 31, 1929, amounted to 49.3% of the total budget allowance. With half of the fiscal year past, it shows the expenditures are within the budget allowance.

General county expenditures for the past six months are within 44.1 per cent of that budget. School expenditures reached 54 per cent of the budgeted appropriations, thus exceeding the quota set for the period.

Expenditures, December

During the month of December, the county expenditures amounted to $517,775.75. Of this sum, $361,761.30 was used for the county schools. The balance of $156,014.45 went for general county purposes. Of this latter sum, $62,969.58 was used for highways and bridges of the county. In preparation of winter storms, the disbursements for highways and bridges were heavier for the month than is usual.

In Supervisor Olsen's district, $3,260.51 was spent in replacing

What Twelve Million Women Want

WITH the above title, it would, of course, be easy for us to start a guessing game.

"Money—and then some money—and then some MORE money," the Cynic would contribute as his answer.

"Love!" would exclaim the Romantic.

"Children," would declare the Sentimentalist.

"Freedom," would insist the Feminist.

"Any and all of these desiderata, in their degree and according to necessity," THE WOMAN OF IT would soothe the disputants. But on this particular day, in this country of ours, 12,000,000 women are putting themselves on record as wanting, and wanting most intelligently and intensely, one thing not mentioned above—the thing called PEACE.

To-day, in Washington, just a week before the opening of the naval disarmament conference in London, representatives of ten of the most important women's organizations in the United States meet in the fifth annual conference of the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War. If anybody still believes the maunderings of militarists who profess to see the wolf of Red Radicalism dressed in the sheep's clothing of the pacifist, we suggest that this unduly apprehensive American note the names of the following twelve-million-woman-power organizations, which "tell the world" that they want world peace.

Is there anywhere a group more conservative, calm, respectable than the American Association of University Women? Or than the Council of Women for Home Missions? Or than the Federation of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions of North America? Or than the General Federation of Women's Clubs? Or the National Board of the Y. W. C. A.? Or the National Council of Jewish Women? Or the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs? Or the National League of Women Voters? Or the National W. C. T. U.? Or the National Women's Trade Union League?

If you yourself are not a member of one or more of these, there's an excellent chance that your mother, aunt, sister, daughter—or wife—is.

TWELVE million intelligent, conscientious, middle-of-the-road mothers, wives and daughters have sent their spokeswomen for five years to Washington, to obtain, in the words of their Chairman, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, "definite information on war and peace."

Not only the greatest American statesmen but distinguished foreigners have made their report to these womtn. General Smuts addresses them to-night on "Ten Years' March Toward Peace." Moreover, this year foreign women ambassadors of peace and good will from other countries—an English woman, a German woman, a French woman, a woman from Japan—are joining in the deliberations of the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War.

"Together"—again it is Mrs. Catt speaking—"we shall make an effort to discover how the women of these countries can unitedly support the building of such international machinery as will effectively prevent war and establish peace."

"AND what does it all amount to?" the cynics and the militarists ask. "Just a lot of women talking!"

The sneer is neither fair nor accurate. These peace-wanting women listen. They think. But granted that they also talk—to one another, in Washington this week, to the 12,000,000 women to whom they go home and report—who can justly deride the power of the word of women?

Surely it has been a long admitted fact—even a wry jest—that members of our sex can get anything they want if they talk about it hard enough and long enough. The tongue is traditionally woman's weightiest weapon—ask any husband! The more women who talk peace—and the more they talk it—the sooner the world will reach a state of mind in which will be possible the new era eloquently described by the National Committee on the Tenth Anniversary of the League of Nations, "an era free from tragedies, hatreds and cruel wrongs of war, an era glorious with the happiness and prosperity of a brotherly humanity."

For world peace has to be a state of mind, before it is a technique. We suggest that 12,000,000 American women, who think peace, talk peace, want peace, may finally make some impression on the state of mind (if any) of even cynics and militarists. So, to each of the 12,000,000, we say, with Ann, in Shaw's famous play: "Dear, just go on talking—talking—TALKING!"

SCHEHERAZADE KNEW

Scheherazade knew the day was fated
When glowing voice and speaking hands would fail
To weave their magic, nor her wit avail.

Some languid day, her lord would note how weighted
Her eyelids, how her ripe arm rose, inflated
Above the bracelets. . . . Dewy the dancing girls, pale
Hips writhing . . . and Scheherazade's last tale
Be told. Her lord would gaze upon her, sated.

But now his eyes were tender and intent
(Her facile fancy was a wondrous thing!)—
And now he wooed with wine and subtle scent.
The velvet beat of music. Let bring
The morn oblivion, she had seen
Him not indifferent. She was Queen.

THE NEXT WAR

WARREN DELANO ROBBINS has been called to the colors by the Commander in Chief of the army and navy, Mr. Hoover, and given the post as master of ceremonials at Washington. Mr. Robbins's uniform will consist of full dress evening clothes with a question mark on each shoulder. His duty will be to determine who sits where at all state functions.

With the Mrs. Gann-Alice Longworth campaign on his hands, Robbins should move into a suite in the War Department. And with the map of the White House dining room before him and red and blue pushpins representing the guests, he will set to work. He hopes to have the Gann-Longworth war settled before Hoover finishes his first term. If it isn't settled by then it is doubtful if Herbert will want another.

The Commander in Chief of the army and navy sends over a memo to the War Department that he will give a state dinner the middle of next month. Mr. Robbins immediately whirls into action. He summons the War College, the Chief of Staff and the Bureau of Naval Operations.

"Boys," says Mr. Robbins, with blanched face. "The Chief is giving a state dinner the middle of next month."

"That means war!" says Gen. Whoomsh. "Of course Dolly and Alice will be there."

"I'm afraid they will," says Mr. Robbins. "And we might as well face it, men. What manoeuvres for seating them do you think best?"

"If it's war," says Admiral Glink, "let it come. We'll be prepared."

"How?" asks Mr. Robbins. "Remember, the dinner is scheduled for next month."

"The first thing I'd do," says Admiral Glink, "is to call out the Marine Band. Have 'em equipped with carbines and ammunition concealed in their violin cases. I'd throw up an ambush of potted palms behind the head table and at the first sign of trouble between Mrs. Gann and Alice I'd shoot."

"I don't want any bloodshed," says Mr. Robbins.

"Humph!" snorts Gen. Whoomsh. "Here you've got the biggest war of the year on your hands and you don't want bloodshed. What else do you think will stop 'em?"

"I was hoping strategy would end this war."

"Arming the Marine Band is strategy," argues Admiral Glink. "But if you want to be humane about it, I think I've got a plan. Now suppose Alice and Nick don't show up. That would give Mrs. Gann and Curtis the best seats, wouldn't it, and everything would be jake."

"It would until the next war," concedes Mr. Robbins ruefully.

"All right," says Admiral Glink. "We'll take these wars as they come along. But to keep Nick and Alice out of the first battle, here's the idea. The afternoon of the dinner I'll send some navy spies up to the Longworths' backyard to feed Paulina some green apples. About 7 o'clock that night she'll have the colic and Nick and Alice can't come."

"That's strategy," admits Mr. Robbins, "but we mustn't tackle unfortified children. Isn't there some other way?"

"Well," says the Bureau Chief of Naval Operations, "you can put a tack on the seat at the right of the President and then neither of 'em will want it very long."

"But I don't want any one wounded, either," insists Mr. Robbins. Then, "Gentlemen, I have it!" he exclaims, coming out of a reverie. "I'll rule that age takes precedence over beauty at sitting next to the President. Then both of them will hang back."

"Announce that to Alice and Dolly," advises the War College, "and they won't even show up."

The Fa... Advice

By Al... Smith

A FRIEND of mine has a boy away at school and when he returned for the holidays he found his cousin staying at the house. He thought to do the right things by this relative, so he bought [illegible] a gun with real, though small bullets.

Christmas day came and they went shooting.

Walking along in the snow they came upon a pheasant. They were so excited they could not shoot. The boys handed the gun back and forth while the bird looked on amused and then flew away.

This reminds me so much of various phases of life—when we find what we want we often do not know what to do with it.

Don't YOU think so?

Fitting the Dressing Table to the Modern Scheme

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

SHE may give first attention to plans for the general living rooms of her house—but rare is the woman who does not think of her own room first. For there, and there only, she may have free rein in the matter of favorite colors and those subtle feminine details which reflect her own taste and her individual charm.

Beautiful walls and floors, draperies and the larger furnishings are most important items in the scheme for the woman's room. They should and do receive the serious consideration of every practical mind. It is not to them, however, that we address ourselves to-day, but to that delectable vanity in whose name the most decorative things are done, the dressing table—a topic which never tires us, and which calls forth more creative genius than any other element in the room.

To-day's dressing tables are different indeed from those of the older schemes, and far more interesting. For they are shorn of sentimental frills and flounces and present themselves in fascinating modern forms. Without decreasing their decorative effect, more attention is paid to convenience and order and less to ornament, since more tailored effects are required for the simpler modern schemes.

In variety, designs are infinite, as always. It is difficult to confine the discussion to just a few, but of the many different dressing tables that suggest themselves, four examples planned for four widely different rooms seem to embody points of particular interest.

The first and most charming table was designed for a very young girl. It was to stand against a long, unbroken wall in a long and narrow room, and was necessarily of like proportion. I should say it was at least five feet long, not wider than fourteen inches at the broadest part of the curved top, which resembled a shallow crescent, with a flat back fitting tightly against the wall.

Remembering the inconvenience of the usual draped table, which requires one to pull out a curved section and lift the curtain to get to compartments, we were determined to design something more simple and effective. Instead of manipulating curtains, we wanted the storage sections to open and close instantaneously, and to achieve this had compartments built on hinged wings attached to the outer legs of the table. In the centre of the table a kneehole space was provided and one-third of the draped curtain was arranged to fall free over this section; the other two parts of the curtain were attached to the hinged side sections. When in place the curtains appeared as one piece, and it was only when in action that they parted at the three points described.

The walls of this room were tinted soft blue; window draperies of white chintz with modernistic flower motif in clear cinnamon pink, brown, mulberry and turquoise blue, were finished with little pleated ruffles of cinnamon pink taffeta—a treatment which even in this day of ultra-simplicity is quite all right for the room of a very young girl.

To go with this scheme of pink and blue we chose for our dressing table curtain a delightful piece of imported China silk having broad pink and white stripes criss crossed with black in diamond pattern. The fabric was applied in full straight-hanging folds, finished simply at the top with several plain folds of the same material. On the table we used a mirror glass top with a band of pink criss-crossed with black painted on the under side of the glass before it was silvered. The hanging mirror was a modernistic piece bound in silver finished at the top with a leaf motif in brass and pewter.

Toilet accessories for the modern dressing table are, of course, of utmost importance, for they are emphatic accents of style—or the lack of it. Had I been allowed to choose new ones for this table I would have used two modern bottle lamps of bubble glass shading from blue to pink in the effect of a heavenly sunset when lighted from underneath, and modern silver or modernistic accessories in black would have been my choice for the toilet ware.

The second of our four tables was one designed for the hostess of a very beautiful English home, and it, too, was planned to fit a particular space—a window niche in this case. Tucked away in its alcove, the table was beautifully framed by the window curtains, which were of striped silk shading from beige to pink and brown, draped very high and finished with a band of the stripes running crosswise of the material. Back in the niche the leaded casement windows were softened with pink voile curtains made in two tiers and allowed to hang loose at the lower edges.

The sanded walls of the room were tinted plain pinkish beige, the carpet was a deep warm tone between pink and brown, and for the dressing table curtain we chose plain salmon-colored taffeta with a wide hem piped with a fold of the striped silk used at the windows. The top of the curtain was gathered simply and finished with a box-pleated cuff of striped silk the width of the drawer section. On the top of mirror glass we placed a charming old Biedermeier mirror swung on black wood posts which were in smart contrast with its frame and drawer section of light fruit wood. As accessories we used a modern toilet set in black and two little lamps supported by slim columns of black glass.

The third dressing table—the one illustrated—is of German vintage and represents a modern designer's interpretation of the modern woman's needs. The long beveled mirror framed in silver is arranged to swing on a swivel so that it can be turned to catch the changing light, and overhead is an arched electric light for night use. The top and base of the table are lacquered in soft lettuce green, as are all pieces of furniture in the room; toilet accessories are of yellow glass and curtains of white voile printed in delicate shades of yellow, green and violet with a scalloped band of pale yellow further accent the spring tones of the setting.

This compact table with its full length mirror fitting into a small corner space is so widely different from the customary dressing table that it should make quite an impression in American households.

The best—although perhaps not the most decorative table—I have kept until the last, and will give it just enough of a description to make you curious. Another time perhaps it can be illustrated by photograph.

In type the table resembles certain skyscraper pieces, with a crescent-shaped centre section much like the table first described. But here there are no draperies. The wood is finished in silver or painted in the modern manner. On the left side of the table, slender modernistic bookshelves rise to a fair height. On the inner side of the shelves is a compartment for stationery, and a curved light that shines down on the table top which appears to be a desk, but when lifted reveals a completely fitted vanity. On the right side of the table section are three drawers for lingerie.

For the business girl's living-bedroom or for the small guest room where it is desired to have one piece do the work of three, this table-bookshelf-desk is most appropriate.

Now we have sampled the dainty, girlish dressing table; one of the tailored hostess type; then a modernist creation, followed by the many-purpose invention as the final touch. And in each case one dominant feature—simplicity—impresses us. This, then, is the real point of our discussion. If the dressing table of to-day is to be smart—modern in the best acceptance of that term—it must be characterized by a certain trim simplicity and possess convenience as well as beauty.

UNIQUE IN ITS CONCEPTION, THIS DRESSING TABLE, DESIGNED BY A GERMAN ARTIST, GIVES US THE COVETED LONG MIRROR PLUS SMART LINES AND THE MODERN TOUCH.

When You Entertain

FOR an entertainment, programs to keep the guests on the qui vive throughout the evening, have a messenger appear at interval. A change of caps will be all that is necessary to make this personage a letter carrier, an expressman, &c., or there may be merely a messenger to deliver notes, telegrams and parcels. Each time he rings for admittance and in stentorian tones he announces "package from"—— or "special delivery," as the case may be, and he reads the address, then requests recipient to sign for it. A witty messenger can make his every entry very amusing.

Letters and parcels are delivered until each guest has received one. The versatile hostess can make this a very entertaining feature of her party by her assignment of stunts suitable to the individual guests and by the packing of the various packages.

In a letter per air mail have a handkerchief, change purse or other flat favor and on an inclosed card announce that bearer of card may return gift if she performs a self-selected literary or musical stunt.

In a cable despatch direct the receiver to hunt in the phonograph (or elsewhere) for a package, and make the search quite intricate. On the outside of the package have a tag instructing the victim to put on a dance record and keep it going all through the dance, the length of which is to be determined by applause of dancers.

In a telegram delivered together with a large parcel directed to one of the accomplished musicians present, give orders to render a selection before opening the parcel, which should contain a miniature musical instrument.

A copy of a new song may be rolled on a mailing tube and be made into a bulky package and the outside tag ordering the recipient to sing. A box of flowers (artificial) or a corsage bouquet may be presented to a lady and the attached card tell her to toss one flower among the men (who stand in a cluster) and the one who returns it to her is to be her partner in a solo couple dance.

A Charlie Chaplin doll in a large box should bear instructions that the recipient be blindfolded and select one of the girls who are going around him in a circle. The couple are then to march around the room walking like Charlie Chaplin.

A highly scented letter may inform the lady to follow the green cord. This should run along floor, be wound around furniture and behind pictures and above doors until it reaches the spot where the laborious search ends in the finding of perfume, an atomizer or bath salts.

Tweed Mixtures

NUBBY tweeds in the development of suits, coats and even dresses are emphasized in black and white mixture. Second in the color range is red and white, then green. Curiously the brown mixtures are less important seemingly, although brown in plain fabrics is considered important for spring. The very rough coarse tweeds are continued in coatings.

Some new wool materials have a well covered appearance, but are a very open weave, seeming to resemble heavy tweeds, yet in reality quite light. This type is used especially by Jane Regny, who announces exclusive Regny fabrics. She uses it for sports dresses and suits.

A DISH A DAY

By Nancy Dorris

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

What to serve herself at midday often causes the stay-at-home woman more trouble than either breakfast or dinner, the menus of which are more or less planned for the other members of the household

Rather than fuss for herself, she refrains from food, or drinks a cup of tea and eats a slice of bread and butter without relish. No woman on a reducing schedule would eat so meagrely at luncheon. Yet the active stay-at-home woman expects to keep well, strong and happy with a very light breakfast, practically no lunch and a small dinner.

When she at length goes to her physician complaining of nerves and indigestion, she is surprised that he bluntly tells her she has been starving herself and of course nerves and stomach have rebelled. Given a sensible daily diet, she must learn to eat a fair breakfast of some fruit, a cereal and rich milk, an egg, some bread stuff, a hot beverage with cream. Her luncheon consists of a hot dish containing food value, a green salad, sandwiches and a sweet and a beverage. Dinner continues the well-balanced meal she had offered her family but had partaken of sparingly herself: a clear soup, a portion of meat, fish, cheese or the protein equivalent, two vegetables besides potatoes, a large green salad, a sweet and beverage.

The problem of planning and preparing luncheon troubles a column reader, whose physician has insisted that she eat and enjoy a nourishing midday meal regularly. For her guidance and that of other stay-at-home women who find luncheon planning difficult, the following suggestions are offered:

HOME LUNCHEON MENUS

Head lettuce Russian dessing
Fruit cup Wafers Tea

Pigs in blankets
(bacon and oysters broiled)
Potato, tomato, lettuce salad
Vanilla junket Cookies Tea

Welsh rarebit on toast
(well-cured cheese)
Waldorf salad (apple, celery, nuts)
Tea

Tuna-onion-potato scallop
Fruit salad Plain sandwiches
Tea

Creamed shrimp and peas in
Mashed potato cups
Mixed green salad
Cup cakes Tea
Baked corned beef hash
Club celery
Chocolate pudding Tea

Cheese souffle Relish
Broiled tomatoes
Fruit compote Wafers Tea

Oyster stew or scallop
Pilots Celery
Canned peaches Cookies Tea

Codfish balls Tomato sauce
Vegetable salad
Caramel custard Tea

Veal a la king (left-over veal)
Green salad French dressing
Ripe fruit Tea

In addition there are canned ravioli, spaghetti, chile con carne, chicken a la king, clam chowder, a host of soups and ready to serve meats and fish to be had at the grocery. Salad meals are also good when the salad contais a green plus shellfish or fish, or diced meat chicken or the like, or eggs or nuts, or cheese or fruit served with a mayonnaise dressing. With wholewheat bread and butter the main course is good. A sweet and beverage complete the meal. Sandwiches made with a nourishing filling and garnished with radishes, celery or olives and served with hot chocolate or cocoa are also simple and tempting.

BOSWORTH AT BEST IN SEA PICTURE

One of the most entertaining and exciting sea pictures that has come to the screen will be shown at the Fox-California theater tomorrow. It is Columbia's all talking drama, "Hurricane" starring the sea dog of the films, Hobart Bosworth. Although the actor has been seen in numerous other pictures of the deep, never before has he had a role of the magnitude of the present one.

With the exception of a few scenes taken during a storm in a South Sea port, the film was made upon the high seas aboard a sailing vessel. The storm, a mutiny with some of the most realistic scrap sequences ever filmed and a poignant love story are a few of the highlights of the production. During the mutiny, the audience rose to its feet in excitement. The encounter between Bosworth and Allan Roscoe, as the pirate captain, is one of the most thrilling sequences ever brought to the screen.

The use of sound in the film and the dialogue, enchance its value and complete the illusion. The swishing of the waves, the howling wind, the lashing of the sails, the beating rain and the howls of the men during the melee are thrills to be remembered as the tense dramatic action unfolds. The dialogue is exceptionally good.

Johnny Mack Brown has the role of a youth, shanghaied by the pirate captain and placed aboard Hurricane's schooner. He handles the role so cleverly that in some scenes he almost steals the picture away from Bosworth. Leila Hyams does some excellent work as the terrified daughter upon whom the captain seeks to vent his wrath. Leila McIntyre portrays the erring wife of the captain in a concincing manner. A Mickey Mouse Cartoon, "Toot Sweet" is also to be shown on this program.

HOPE HELD FOR 85 MISSING IN FLOOD

CHICAGO, Jan. 23—(U.P.)—Winter relented in the middlewest tonight and momentarily eased its stinging scourge of cold when temperatures generally rose to above zero.

The relative warmth threatened the greatest disaster of all in southern Indiana where enormous ice gorges in flooded rivers started to grumble and creak. Should the gorges suddenly be freed, they would rush down strem before a mighty wall of water, tearing out bridges and ruining towns along their path.

One of the ice jams, some five miles long in the Wabash river, contains millions of tons of solidly packed ice. Even if it is broken in pieces due to the thaw, it was feared that its tremendous down stream course still would be disastrous.

A smaller gorge held back the torrent some 12 miles above. It was expected to give way first, smash into the larger jam below and send it crashing southward.

Thousands of acres of land both in Indiana and Illinois are flooded and scores of additional families were sent scurrying from their homes to seek uncertain shelter in refugee camps already crowded. State Representative F. W. Lewis described the situation as "critical" in an appeal to Governor L. L. Emmerson for aid.

Only faint hope existed for the safety of 85 rural residents. Nothing has been heard from them for more than a week. The whole area is under several feet of water, topped by a thick crust of yellow ice.

More than 250 families were marooned in northeastern Arkansas where similar flood conditions prevailed. Floating ice made operation of relief boats dangerous.

DAM MEETING SUCCESS SEEN

RENO, Nev., Jan. 23—(U.P.)—The conference of states affected by the proposed Boulder Dam project resolved today into a meeting to discover a mutual understanding on equitable distribution of water and power from the project.

There was conjecture as to how much time would be required before delegations of California, Arizona and Nevada would join together again. They met for three minutes Wednesday.

Each of these groups was still unaware of the demands being made by another.

Debates Hit

The reason was an endeavor by William J. Donovan to prevent prolonged and stubborn debates.

Donovan, personal representative of Secretary of Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, had voluntarily offered to find a "common ground" for discussion between the different states and they had readily accepted his proposal.

Therefore, each delegation had received Donovan and confided in him just how much power and water they should be entitled to have from the Boulder Dam.

No Development

After his first round of the different commissions, Donovan said there were no developments for publications.

"I feel that when a common ground for discussion has been reached I can call all the representatives back to the general conference meetings." he said.

The emissary from Washington warned that upon the result of deliberations here rests the immediate fate of the Boulder Dam project.

Donovan Lauded

A tribute to the ability of Donovan was paid by Senator Key Pittman of Nevada.

"Only unreasonable demands can prevent the conference from ending successfully," Pittman said.

As patiently as they had awaited the arrival of Donovan, which was delayed nearly three days, official observers from the "upper basin" states were waiting for the secret meeting to close so that they might actively join in the conference.

to President Hoover a charge that Foran has violated the law by being a director in a steamship company which enters the port of New York. He also charged Foran illegally accepted the recoration of Chevalier of the Legion of Honon from the French government in the last few weeks.

Shields also made public pictures which his investigator, Harold Nadel, took on a visit to Foran's farm near Mt. Airy, N. J. The pictures showed a neat little bar fitted in a corner of a room, alleged gambling machines, and empty whiskey bottles which Nadel said he found on the Foran place. Affidavits of Nadel and his wife said he saw a bottle of champagne on a table.

Others Involved

Charges involving Collector of Customs Elting and others in New York's large customs organization are also being considered, Assistant Treasury Secretary Lowman said. These were reported to be connected with the celebrated Golbart company investigation, the secret evidence of which involves the names om many society matrons, millionaires, a moving picture actor and others provided with liquor by an alleged ring, the heads of which have been indicted.

The anti-saloon league officials directly named Herbert S. Pratt, chairman of the Standard Oil company of New York, in their charges against the customs officials. They said in affidavits that Pratt paid $14,000 to have $25,000 worth of champagne smuggled into this country on the steamer Excello, listed on the manifest as crockery and flower pots.

NAVAL CONFERENCE ADJOURNS, TO RESUME MEET NEXT WEEK

directly to coast lines and territories as to the possibility of war.

Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy reemphasized that Italy wants the "lowest possible level" of fleets provided they are not exceeded by "any other continental European power"—that is, by France.

Reijiro Wakasuki of Japan desired to have all categories of fleets, including battleships, discussed.

Parity Sought

Such was the groundwork laid today. The United States called to mind its parity agreement with Britain. Italy sought parity with France. No other specific demands were presented.

The conference adjourned until next week, in the hope the various delegations might unlimber their facts and figures in the meantime. The big five—MacDonald, Stimson, Tardieu, Grandi and Wakatsuki held a 90-minute meeting at No. 10 Downing street in the afternoon and discussed the best methods of tackling the various problems.

The first business session, held in Queen Anne's drawing room in St. James' palace, the delegates not only heard the general statements but appointed themselves a committee of the whole and elected Sir Maurice Hankey, as Secretary-General.

"Happy Start"

Macdonald told newspapermen that a happy start had been made, but that difficulties were ahead.

"It was most interesting, most informing and most friendly," he said of the session. "The business was to report the navel needs of each country in terms not of naval strength but of geographical position and political responsibility. There were no hostile questions from one delegation to another."

He summarized the general problems of the conference as touching on:

A. Fleets on the sea.
B. Fleets laid down.
C. Fleets provided for by the votes of Parliaments and Congress.

Agreement Sought

"We are seeking a common agreement that fleets be on the lowest possible levels to halt competitive building and to agree on the relative strengths and needs of various nations," MacDonald said.

If some test proposal were published prematurely, the conference might come to an abortive end, he said, cautioning the press to take extreme precautions in this respect. While most of the conference sessions will be in private, there will be occasional plenary meetings at which the press might attend, he promised.

Airman Sues Passenger In Plane Wreck

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—UP—A unique suit for $100,000 in which a former aviator recalled the outcome of a night he was strapped to the cockpit of his damaged plane while a blizzard raged, was filed in superior court here today by Frank H. Barber.

Defendants named in the complaint were Timothy Pflueger and Aubrey Ames, said to have been passengers of Barber when he was flying a regular route over Nevada.

Barber charged that a forced landing was made in the Ruby mountains of Nevada last year and he lost consciousness.

He charged that Pflueger and Ames were not injured and were protected from the wintry winds by the cabin.

The allegation that climaxed his suit was that the passengers would not climb forward to release his strap and pull him back to the warmth of the cabin.

As a result, he said, he suffered permanent injuries which made him lose his job.

SALINAS, Jan. 23—(U.P.)—The Monterey garage mechanic who has admitted he signed the affidavit which caused imprisonment of Mrs. Sue Brown on charges of possessing liquor declared tonight he had affixed the signature of "Henry Miller" in offices of Judge Ray Baugh.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. Jan. 23.—UP—A coroner's jury returned a verdict of first degree murder late today against George Moore, alleged bootlegger, who was held in the slaying of Robert K. Moncure and Franklin R. Patterson, prohibition agents last Saturday.

The verdict was returned after an entire day of deliberations, during which several witnesses were examined.

Moore's attorneys would not allow him to take the stand in his own defense.

The defense stressed the time element throughout the hearing, arguing that the warrant Moncure and Patterson had with them was for a day time raid only.

Ollie More, 14, defendant's daughter, told how she was in her house when her father went to the door in answer to the agents' knock. When she reached the door, she said, she heard a voice cry:

"Shoot him! Shoot Him!"

California To Develop Roads

California plans one of the greatest highway development programs in its history for 1930, according to the California State Automobile association. ## HIGH EXPECTS TO REMAIN IN C. I. F.

"The chances of Richmond Union high school being allowed to stay in the Alameda County Athletic league are about "50-50" was the statement given by B. X. Tucker, principal of the local high school, at an assembly of the pupils yesterday.

Richmond Union high school has been threatened with expulsion from the league as the result of an act of vandalism committed last Thursday night at Hayward high school by four youths not pupils of the local high school.

According to the league constitution, any vandalism done by a pupil or sympathizer of any high school is sufficient to put that high school out of the league. However, as this was only the first offense of the Richmond high school, hope has been expressed by the league authorities that Richmond will not lose its league standing.

Short talks were also given by Ivan W. Hill, athletic coach at the high school, and Ed Owens, student athletic manager, on the subject of "Sportsmanship."

The assembly was held following the weekly Standard Oil school broadcast.

MIDWICK POLO TEAM LOSES TO S.A.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23—(U.P.)—The hard riding Argentine polo team proved too strong for Midwick today and defeated the locals 12 to 6 in the first games of the local winter season.

Argentine was splendidly mounted and played a fast match in which it showed excellent team work.

The visitors took a lead in the first chukker through the brilliant playing of Raynals, Juan and Jose, who scored once and twice, respectively. Meanwhile, James Spalding tallied for Midwick and the count was 3 to 1.

Paddock added another point for Midwick in the third chukker to lessen the Argentine advantage to 2 to 1, but the fourth chukker proved the locals' undoing.

Harrington scored for the South Americans, then Juan Raylal followed suit, as did Andrada. That made the count 6 to 2.

Each scored in the fifth chukker, Juan Daynal and McCarthy being responsible.

They played even up in the sixth. Scores by Jose Raynal and Andrada were offset by Spalding's pair. With the Argentine lead 9 to 5, the latter made things more decisive in the seventh chukker, Juan Raynal's two goals increased the visitors' lead to 11 to 5.

Juan Raynal scored again in the eighth chukker and Pedley duplicated for Midwick, to bring the score to its final point.

Turner Mum On Purchase Plan

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 23.—UP—"The boys wanted something to write about in Oakland so I gave them a story," Thomas L. Turner, president of the Portland baseball club, said on arrival here today when questioned about the report that he was interested in purchasing the Boston Red Sox.

Turner would say nothing more about the incident but added that he received numerous telegrams from over the country following the story. He said he would have some announcements of deals for new players "in the near future."

Rain, Rain Go Away, Plea Of Diamond Fans

Ominous, black, scowling, rain-laden clouds once more appear on the horizon and the rooters for the Thomas Motors and San Pablo nines are becoming certain that Jupe has a strong grudge on poor, innocent baseball fans. Thrice provoked, local baseball enthusiasts are casting about in search of the oft-hoped for genius who can devise some method to keep precipitated moisture from postponing baseball games.

However, the clouds may blow away, and clear skys once more beam down upon tense crowds in the First street bleachers. In any case, the San Pablo and Thomas athletes are getting the old arm back into shape. According to Ted Christ, San Pablo manager, if there is the least dry spot remaining on the First street diamond the teams will play Sunday. Christ also expressed the opinion that when they do play, the greatest crowd in the history of local baseball will turn out to see the two squads in action.

A triple header on the local diamond is in the offing, for the Oakland Winter league schedule is overloaded with postponed contests. The local managers are attempting to secure this extra event for the same Sunday on which the Thomas Motors-San Pablo game will be played.

Berkeley Five, High Cagers Play Tuesday

The Berkeley high school Yellowjackets will oppose the invading hordes of Richmond Union high varsity and a warriors of the basketball court Tuesday at the Berkeley high school gymnasium.

For many years, a fierce rivalry has existed between the local high school varsity five and the Berkeley aggregation. The Richmondites conquered the Berkeleyans by a 22 to 12 score last year, while both schools each boasted a victory during the two previous seasons. With the existence of such rivalry between these two schools, fans ought to be treated to hard-fought basketball Tuesday.

The B game will begin at four o'clock, and will be followed by the varsity contest.

GENE SARAZEN WINS $25,000 AGUA CALIENTE GOLF MATCH

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 23.—UP—An old master in the game of golf came back today to teach the youngsters a trick or two and incidentally win the $25,000 Agua Caliente Open tournament, the richest event in the history of the royal sport.

Gene Sarazen, stroking along at an almost super-human pace, overcame some of the greatest odds ever to face a golf player as he collected the $10,000 first place money and made history as the victor in the first annual event of the fashionable Mexican resort.

Sarazen scored a 68 for 18 holes today, a record for the new and tricky Caliente course. His score was three under par and was more than sufficient to place him at the head of a celebrated list of rivals with a total of 295 for the 72-hole tourney.

Espinosa, Smith Second

The New York professional was followed by Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., and Al Espinosa, Chicago pro, both of whom scored 297.

The last day of the tournament afforded the huge gallery one of the greatest catch as catch can finishes in the annuals of golf. It was a home stretch ending as exciting as any staged by the running horses at the Agua Caliente track, just a stone throw away from the golf links.

Horton Smith, the most consistent professional in the country, and Espinosa, Chicago expert, were ahead of the field by a scant margin when play started on the final round. Each had a total of 224 and few figured that Sarazen, with 227, could overtake them.

Espinosa Good

Smith and Espinosa shot good golf on the final eighteen but nothing to compare with the inspired exhibition of Gene. Horton made a 76 for the day as did the Chiciagoan but they could not match Sarazen's performance.

Smith finished his first nine ahead of the field just a few minutes before the news circulated that Gene had gone out in 32 and was a scant stroke behind. When Horton came in with his 297, Sarazen was still out on the course and not many figured he could better the Missourian's total.

When Gene finished, however, it was found that he had equalled par 76 for his last nine holes and he virtually was conceded victory.

Sarazen had two bad holes during the entire round, the 10th and the 11th. He drove away in good shape on the 405-yard tenth, but his iron sent him into a trap in which he wasted three strokes and took a six for a par four hole.

For a moment it appeared that this unnerved Gene as he shot a four on the par three No. 11 after a bit of difficulty in the rough.

He recovered his pace on the 12th, however.

Smith Hit

Horton Smith also experienced trouble on the 10th hole and took a six, which threw him off his stride.

The Agua Caliente victory marked Sarazen's first major coup for a long time. He leaped into prominence in 1922 when he won the U. S. Open and after that time his name was considered dangerous in golf circles.

He usually managed to land in the first few of every tournament he entered, but the Caliente event was his outstanding performance after a lull of a year or more.

Gets Prize

The $10,000, which Sarazen won, was presented to him at the Caliente track between two horse races. The purse was converted into silver dollars and was brought in a wheelbarrow.

Other prizes presented were: Horton Smith and Al Espinosa $3,700 each for a tie second dividing second and third money; Mortie and Olin Dutra $1250 each dividing fourth and fifth money in a tie; MacDonald Smith $750; Al Watrous $650; Joe Kirkwood $550; Henry Cuici $450; Bobby Cruickshank, Charlie Guest, $370; Paul Runyon $225; Harold Long, Abe Espinosa, Harry Cooper, Leo Diegel, Neil Christian $200; Neil McIntyre, John Golden, Walter Murray and Ed Dudley $100.

Von Elm High

George Von Elm, Detroit amateur, was high of the non-money players with 298 and received a cup, which was presented with the money awards.

The gallery was the largest to follow the players during the four days and contained numerous movie celebrities, including Buster Keaton, his wife, Natalie Talmadge, and a party of 16 guests. It was estimated that 1500 persons saw the finish. The majority strung with Horton Smith until it was known that Sarazen was "hot", whereupon the fans split up for the ending. Sarazen played with MacDonald Smith and Denny Shute.

Emeryville To Play R. U. H. S. Cagers Today

Both out to avenge their defeats of the early part of this week, the varsity and B cagers of Richmond Union high school will clash with Emeryville high school's quintets today at the Oakland Armory.

The two varsity squads have yet to gain their first victory in the Alameda County Athletic league, which promises plenty of aggressiveness in today's battle.

Although having a little better luck than their "big brothers" the local B's were badly repulsed last Tuesday by the Alamedans, and the Richmond lightweights are anxious to once more get into step in the triumphal procession.

The boys who will start today for the Richmond Union high school varsity are: Viano, Marcos, forwards; Hoeffer, center; Brock, Degnan, guards.

The starting lineup for the local B squad will be: Boschetti, Rollino, forwards; Wilson, center; Sanfilinpo, Rogers, guards.

Girls To Form Church Cage Loop

A girls' church cage league is being arranged, according to Reynold Carlson, director of the league. Probably six teams will participate in the league. The league schedule has not yet been completed, but it is expected to start within the next month.

HEAVIES, SANTA FE, ROOFERS, RENEGADES WIN CAGE CONTESTS

City league cage fans were treated last night to the extraordinary sensation of seeing Bunny Muth of the Studebakers playing against Studebaker's guard, Cornell. Ernie Barbieri playing against his Garfinkle mate, George Gordon. Joe Baldwin of Furrer's against Furrer's forward Ray Melin, and Walt Gordon of Garfinkle's five playing against Larry Gillan.

Such was the odd state of affairs when an unlimited team of men picked from the city league played against a lightweight aggregation chosen also from the city league, and in spite of their magnificent stand, the lightweights lost to the heavies by the score of 18 to 24.

Santa Fe had a big night in a one sided contest against the Aristo Union Oil cagers of Oleum. Santa Fe was victorious by a score of 35 to 13. Tula of Santa Fe reaped an especially fruitful harvest of 21 points.

Nationals Lose

Fighting at the final whistle with only three men, the Nationals lost to the Mastercraft Roofers by a 12 to 16 score. The contest was fairly even until the fourth quarter, when Flores and Pinto of the Nationals had to leave the floor because of fouls. The three men left in the game staged a plucky fight but could not keep their goal in safety from the ravages of the Roofers in that last period.

The Santa Fe Indians lost to the Santa Fe Renegades by a 21 to 1 Oscore last night. Showing a better playing standard than usual, the Indians played hard basketball, but their defense was no match for the superior attack of the Renegades.

Game Monday

Harry Bottger will present gold basketballs to the members of Garfinkle's quintet, winner of the A division, and Mammy's Place, champion of the B division, Monday night at the Richmond Union high school gymnasium. At that time, the last card of the regular city league schedule will be played.

Garfinkle's will tangle with the Studebakers at 8 o'clock, while the Santa Fe athletes will clash with Furrer's squad at 9 o'clock. Mammy's Place will meet the Civic Center Tires at 7 o'clock.

Although of no significance as to the outcome of the league, a goodly turnout of fans is expected to witness the last games.

Title Game

The first playoff for the championship of the entire city league will be played between Garfinkle's and Mammy's Place Thursday night. In the preliminaries Oleum will clash with Breuner's outfit of Oakland, and the Oleum girls will tangle with Breuner's girls' squad.

The last two playoffs for the league championship will be played on Feb. 3 and Feb. 6. The league cup will be presented on the night of the last playoff by William Stribley, donator of the award. Preliminaries for the two last playoffs have not yet been arranged.

First Game

Unlimited picked team 24— B. Muth 4, Gillan 6, forwards; Bonham, center; Barbieri 4, Baldwin 4, guards; substitutes A. Huzefka 4, A. Muth 2, forwards; Baldwin, guard.

Lightweight picked team 18—Hall 6, Melin 1, forwards; W. Gordon 3, center; Lane 1, G. Gordon 2, guards; substitutes Maloney, forward; Flynn 4, center; Cornell 1 guard.

Liver, Gall Bladder and Stomach Trouble Relieved

FONG WAN
Eminently Successful Herbalist

2946 Morgan Ave.
Oakland, Cal.
Nov. 19, 1929.
THE FONG WAN HERB CO.
Dear Mr. Fong—I am writing this letter to express my gratitude for the splendid results and benefits I have received from the use of the Chinese Herbs prepared by you.
I had a complication of Liver, Gall-Bladder and Stomach Trouble with sharp, stabbing pains in the lower right side of my Abdomen. The region of the Liver was exceedingly sore and tender; so much so that even loose clothing became irritating and uncomfortable. My Stomach was also very sore to the touch and felt as if there were a lump the size of an egg in it. After meals, food which was very sour and burned the throat, was returned to the mouth.
This condition steadily became worse over a period of a year. During this time, I was treated by two doctors without any appreciable results. Both decided that an operation was necessary.
By good fortune, I came into contact with a man whom you had treated successfully for an Ulcerated Stomach, and he strongly urged me to take your treatment. This I did.
Results were noticeable the very first week, and now, after six weeks, I am entirely free from the terrible stabbing pains and the soreness over my Liver. My digestion is good. The old feeling of lassitude has completely disappeared and I feel much brighter and more energetic than I have for years.
I am most happy to strongly recommend the herbs of the Fong Wan Herb Co. as prepared by you.
Wishing you unbounded success, and again thanking you for what you have done for me, I am

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

"GENERAL CRACK"
BY
GEORGE PREEDY

Copyright 1928 by Dodd Mead & Co., Inc.

The Warner Bros. & Vitaphone production starring John Barrymore is based on this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Princess Eleanora, first engaged to King Leopold, Elector of Bavaria, has become the wife of General Crack, soldier of fortune. She is the price Leopold has paid, for reasons of state, so that General Crack will fight on his side. The Duchess of Schönbuchel persuades General Crack to give Eleanora time to like him. He leaves for the campaign, entrusting Eleanora to the Duchess. Gabor, implacable enemy of Crack, forges a letter by Eleanora to Leopold, protesting love, and presents it as genuine.

CHAPTER X—Continued

"Your Majesty's mind can tell you what I mean. Reflect on my words, sire, and you will see the very heart of my meaning. Prince Christian keeps the maiden for the end of the campaign. The maiden, Sire, waits for—" and he paused, smiling at Leopold; the word "you" had been formed upon his lips.
"She is as she was when she left her father's house. Her dreams of love, Sire, are undisturbed.
"That was a subtle move on Prince Christian's part—his way of love, Sire. And there she stays in Ottenheim, her Paradise serene. Love waits for the lucky man, Sire."
"Is this possible?" breathed Leopold. "And how do you know?"
"It is very possible, Sire, to the fantastic-minded. Prince Christian cared enough to wait, seeing perhaps that she was occupied with thoughts of another man."

She dreamed of seeing Leopold again!

"But he," cried Leopold, "could not have known this, even if it were true."
Again Gabor shrugged, spreading out his hands.
"It is not for me to say. I come not into this at all, save as a passing confident of the distracted maiden. She has confided in me, Sire—" He glanced towards the envelope. "She has trusted in you. I have no further part, save in so far as you should care to command me."
"I command nothing but your secrecy," said Leopold, scarcely knowing what he said. "I know not at the moment what to say or do—leave me; I have no longer any time—"
"Nor any answer for the Princess Eleanor, Sire?" smiled Gabor. "The lady is in deep distress and confusion."
"But these matters that you speak of—that she is still . . ." Leopold paused and altered his sentence, which, in his agitation, he scarce knew how to phrase " . . . that she is only by her name his wife? How is this known to you?"
"It is known, Sire, to every one—in Ottenheim."
"Go now," he said, "and before we leave Berlin I will send my answer; if not by you, by another."
"Best by me, Sire," remarked Gabor, calmly, "since this is scarce a business into which to bring too many meddlers. Tongues move quickly, Sire, in such an affair. It were well," he added, boldly, "not to offend Prince Christian before the issue of the campaign is decided."
"Why should I in any way offend Prince Christian?" said Leopold, nervously and wildly.
"Sire, if I may dare to say, I think perhaps if you wrote to the Princess Eleanora or she wrote to you it would most deeply, and even mortally, offend Prince Christian."
Leopold had not thought of this, and the words brought him up sharply as the sudden sight of an abyss might bring a man up who had been stumbling through fog. All his hopes, all his destiny, lay in the hands of Christian—the husband of Eleanora.
"Give me the letter," he muttered, hoarsely, "and presently I will let you know my resolve."
"How then shall I find Your Majesty? It is not so easy for me, once we have left the city, to come into your Imperial presence. Hensdorff can see no reason why I should be closeted with you, Sire; and as for Prince Christian, I am in his deep displeasure."
"I will contrive it," said Leopold, eagerly; "somehow I will contrive it. Leave that to me; and now, begone! "Neither," he added, with deep distaste, "neither your service nor your reward shall be forgotten, Prince Gabor."
The Transylvanian bowed, and gracefully stepping backwards, left the Royal presence.
Leopold immediately tore open the letter.
She wrote: "Sire, Monseigneur—I am left here, bewildered and alone. They say that I am wed to Christian of Kurland, and some ceremony there was. Yet I am free at heart as when we met in the beechwoods of Dursheim. Why did you go away? Will you come back some day and tell me what all this means? I am lonely, and often frightened. He whom they call my husband is a stranger to me; they talk of his return. Often he writes; and I cannot answer. Yet because of many dreams, I write this to you. Help me or comfort me! Your broken-hearted Eleanora."
Leopold was utterly deceived. So she might write—the romantic, lonely girl, shut away in Ottenheim. What had Gabor said? His pulses beat quickly. "The maiden waits."
He need not think of her as Christian's wife. That pure, sweet and delicate creature, shut up with all the mercenary's plunder and all his gaudy and vulgar wealth in Ottenheim! No, she was still Eleanora of Anhalt-Dessau, and that Lutheran marriage was as nothing. He thought of Eleanora, and of how he could answer her letter.

XI

THE Duchess of Schonbuchel moped in Ottenheim. Usually, at this time of the year, she was in Vienna, where she found a great deal of enjoyment and amusement. Apart from her promise to Christian, which she regarded quite seriously, her affection for Eleanora held her there, as guardian and companion of a girl so dangerously ignorant and so dangerously highly placed.
The Duchess got what consolation she could out of Colonel Pons, but he, also, was dreary, and mostly in an ill humour; he found his post one of those vexatious and galling honours which irritate more than they glorify.
Pons had received this mandate gloomily.
Christian wrote regularly enough; but he had little to say of public events.
The tale of Guastalla's and Olivenza's defeat dribbled through, and the Duchess was deeply vexed by the last of these disasters.
Colonel Pons assured her, with melancholy dryness, that they were perfectly safe at Ottenheim.
The Duchess was not so sure.
But Eleanora was happy at Ottenheim. Her lessons had ceased, the masters were gone, the girl was suddenly independent, deferred to, respected and admired; the very atmosphere was full of adulation. The surroundings were to her like the surroundings of enchantment in some of the fairy tales which she so enjoyed reading. After the commonplace home which she had been used to, both in Anhalt-Dessau and at Dursheim, this had a touch of delicious unreality.
She found Colonel Pons far kinder than her father had ever been.
She might read what books she liked; she might walk abroad when she liked; there was a little chariot that took her down the shining road to the river; there was a white horse she could ride in the park; Eleanora did not find the days long.
Christian did not write to her, but the Duchess always showed her his letters, wherein he wrote of gifts he had bought for her—a Michelin flounce in Berlin; a pair of Sevres vases; a great fan of ashy-grey herons' plumes, mounted in silver: these things he had bought for her, and they were coming when the roads were clear. There were dresses, and jewelry too, to arrive from Vienna and Paris. Christian knew where to buy such clothes as would best befit Eleanora.
Eleanora very much wished to go to Vienna. She had never seen any town bigger than Dessau. This was the excuse she gave herself, the longing to see the capital; but she wished to see Leopold again; wished to see him crowned and robed—Caesar indeed!
"Shall I go to the coronation of the Emperor?" she asked, courageously.
And the Duchess said: "Yes, indeed, of course you will go, as Princess Christian of Kurland, with a coronet on your head, and an ermine gown, with a purple velvet train."
"And then shall we go to Kurland?" asked Eleanora, wonderingly. The whole of her future life seemed utterly strange and alien. Kurland was to her only a name on the map, far away, and cold, surely.

SETTERS USED TO RUSH AID TO MINER

GRANGEVILLE, Ida., Jan. 23—(U.P.)—Eight sturdy Irish Setters raced through pitiless cold and over vast snowfields today to bring first aid to Fred Burke, who is suffering from blood poisoning at the Copper King mine in the Green Mountains.

The dogs, driven by Sumner Stonebreaker, veteran northern Idaho musher, carried Dr. J. P. Weber who hopes to reach Burke in time to save his life.

Barring blizzards is was expected that the dogs would reach Burke sometime Friday. However, the trails are covered with huge snowdrifts and travel will necessarily be slow. Dr. Weber set out Wednesday from Elk City when miners came out on snowshoes to seek aid.

The Irish Setters—strong and fast—are the best in northern Idaho. Irish and Gordon Setters are used here in preference to Alaskan "Huskies."

Burke is a miner employed by the Bunker Hill and Sullivan interests and has been ill several days at the Copper King mine. It is estimated the mine is about 25 miles by trail from Elk City, the point from which the dog team started.

City Victor In $100,000 Damage Suit

new complaint setting a legal claim to damages, the city and Parr have won the suit.

The suit was the result of the action of the city three years ago in dispossessing the Richmond Terminal corporation of control over operations at the outer harbor terminal. The company was at that time headed by O. Zugg of San Francisco and managed by Packson H. Misner.

After the corporation had refused to yield possession of the terminal to the Parr Terminal corporation an armed force of police took possession of the dock and Parr took control.

The damage suit for $100,000 was filed shortly after by the Richmond Terminal corporation, claiming loss of its business.

As the city's contract with the corporation had expired prior to the time the Richmond Terminal corporation was dispossessed, the city claimed there was no basis for damages.

The suit was originally filed in San Francisco but the superior court granted a petition by the city of Richmond and Parr for a change of venue to Contra Costa county.

The case was then appealed to the district court of appeals by the Terminal corporation. The district court reversed the lower court decision and ordered the suit tried in San Francisco.

Contending that the plaintiff had failed to set up a cause of action in the complaint, Attorneys Carlson and De Lap then filed demurrers which were decided in favor of the city and Parr yesterday.

NEW DRAFT ACT LAUDED BY LEGION

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23—Personal appeals to the American Legion leaders in California have been received from O. L. Bodenhamer, National Commander of the World War Veterans' Organization, outlining the present major objectives of the American Legion as the strengthening of the Legion in membership to aid the passage of the Universal Draft, legislation at this session of Congress.

Commander Bodenhamer has requested the California veterans to urge Senators Hiram W. Johnson and Samuel M. Shortridge and the members of the California delegation in the House of Representatives to support the Universal Draft legislation.

"We favor universal draft because the underlying principle is fundamentally right and fair and just," Bodenhamer declares. "We believe that all men and all property share proportionately the benefits accruing from victory, and that all men and all property would share proportionately in the loss accruing from defeat. All men and all property, therefore, should share equally and proportionately the burdens of war. In order to share the burdens of war equally and proportionately, it is necessary that all men and all property serve equally during the time of war and that they share equally the responsibilities developing after war.

"This seems a fair principle provided it can be put into operation under a plan which would insure the desired results. Certainly the principle is worthy of study and investigation with the prospect of determining the proper plan of operation.

"And this is just what the Legion is asking for! We want the principle of universal service studied by competent people and we want these people to decide upon the terms and conditions of the plan to put this principle into effect. Certainly, there is nothing unfair about such a request.

"The Reed-Wainwright resolution in Congress, which we are supporting, was prepared by the Legion. This resolution, if adopted, will create a commission composed of members of the Senate and House together with representatives of the different elements of American life and business, for the purpose of studying this universal draft problem. This commission, after studying this problem, would recommend a plan for its consideration. If this plan should meet with the approval of Congress, then it would be written into law and made a part of our national defense policy."

Tax Collections

Comparative collections of first installment taxes show the following:

|---|---|
| 1927 | $2,245,987.65 |
| 1928 | $2,463,263.98 |
| 1929 | $2,370,823.24 |

While the tax rate for the past year was 8% lower than the previous year, the collections for 1929 practically equalled the collections of the previous year.

County Income

Excluding receipts from the sale of bonds, more than 80 per cent of county receipts came from the payment of taxes.

Other County Receipts

During the month of December, the State of California paid the county $100,441.54. This was Contra Costa county's share of the gasoline tax to Sept. 30, and its share of moter vehicle registrations to June 30. Contra Costa county's share from these sources are expected to reach $160,000 for this fiscal year. County Assessor George Meese has estimated there are now approximately 24,000 automobiles owned within the county.

Highways and Bridges

While funds received from the State Motor Vehicle Department are used exclusively for county roads and bridges, the county has to provide additional funds to properly maintain them. During the past six months, $336,872.91 was spent in the county on roads and bridges as follows:

|---|---|
| District No. 1, Supervisor Knott | $54,232.06 |
| District No. 2, Supervisor Olsen | 103,933.66 |
| District No. 3, Supervisor Hayden | 56,402.11 |
| District No. 4, Supervisor Trembath | 45,807.28 |
| District No. 5, Supervisor Buchanan | 76,497.80 |

Most of the money was spent for maintenance and upkeep. For new construction, District No. 1 spent $6,924.00; district No. 2, $13,710.33; district No. 3, $3140.91; district No. 4, $21,144.94; district No. 5, $23.50.

Schools Take Most Money

The public schools are the most important county function in the matter of expenditures. Highways and bridges rank next. Protection to persons and property rates third in expenditures, with the sum of $159,227.55 spent during the past six months, divided as follows:

|---|---|
| Sheriff | $35,959.87 |
| Constables | 13,055.89 |
| County jail and branches | 17,517.36 |

BRITISH WOMEN DRIVERS LAUDED

LONDON —(U.P.)— Women automobile drivers in Britain have been vindicated by the National Safety First association.

Advance figures of an accident analysis prepared by the association reveal that only three per cent of the drivers of 942 motor vehicles involved in accidents during July and August were women.

The figures are based on returns furnished by coroners. They show that out of 781 fatal accidents, 731—or 94 per cent—involved motor vehicles.

These accidents resulted in death to 815 persons, of whom 376 were pedestrians, more than half under fifteen years of age. Under one per cent of all the accidents were classified by coroners as entirely unavoidable. The prime causes of accidents were attributed as follows:

Motor drivers 40.31 per cent; other road users 47.17; vehicular defects 2.68; road defects 3.71; weather 1.67; fire 0.13; miscellaneous avoidable 3.44; unavoidable 0.89.

Many Rates For Registration Fees

Fifteen different methods are employed by the various states in computing registration fees for passenger motor vehicles, according to the California State Automobile association. California, Arizona and the District of Columbia are the only three that use the flat rate method.

Warm Up Motor On Cold Morning

Confession Fails To Save Bandit In Slaying Of Officer

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Jan. 23.—UP—Despite the death bed confession of another man that he fired the fatal shot Joe Herson gangster, was given the death penalty here today by a jury which found him guilty of complicity in the murder of Charles H. Dingman, Jr., motorcycle patrolman.

The defendant was near collapse as the jury was polled. He had rallied sufficiently on leaving the courtroom however, to say: "Aw, I'm not afraid of the rope."

J. W. Watson, another member of the bandit trio charged with shooting the patrolman on the night of Dec. 2, when they were stopped for questioning, confessed he fired the fatal shot. Watson died from lye water taken while confined in jail here.

WOMEN HALT WHEELS OF PROGRESS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—UP—The good housewives of Seventy ninth street left their roasts in pressure cookers and their pies in the ovens today to deefnd the neighborhood against an invasion of mere males.

The ladies decided that they didn't want any telephone poles placed in their front yard and went right about blocking the work. They simply organized, plumped into the post holes and stayed there.

Mrs. Myrtle Powell was the feminine Paul Revere. It seems that Mrs. Powell looked out of a front window in her home today and saw workmen busily digging a hole in the parkway.

Women Aroused

Mrs. Powell is a woman of action. So she imitated the famous Paul, minus the horse, and aroused the neighborhood.

The women went into a huddle and then simply sat and glared.

Mrs. Alex Haxton commanded the 600 block. Mrs. Walter Davies took charge in the 700 sector and Mrs. A. T. Howard was generalissimo at the battle of hill 800.

The mere males worked with a will and soon there was a three-block string of post holes, as a matter of fact, very good post holes.

Women Leap

Mrs. Powell (Revere) waited until the bole in front of her home was finished, then promptly jumped into it. And as she leaped, she screamed. Her allies let out shrill yips and leaped also.

A gang of astonished workmen stopped and stared. A driving foreman gasped and then argued. He didn't have a chance with so many women.

But he had an idea and disappeared for a few moments. Sirens shrieked and a police riot squad armed with sawed-off shotguns arrived.

Police Arrive

The policemen sat down on the running boards of their cars and talked it over, then decided that there was nothing they could do and went back to the card game in the division jail.

That's all. The ladies held the sector and the foreman literally talked his head off, but all to no avail.

General Mrs. Powell announced that the ladies would give up their position if the Los Angeles railway would agree to run the power line behind their houses. The gang of workmen left and the ladies emerged. The company's lawyers are going to think the matter over.

'Bad Babies' Trial Reopens

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—UP—Profanity and sexy situations in the stage play "Bad Babies" were told in municipal court today in the retrial of members of the cast on a charge of presenting an indecent performance.

Charles D. MaGee of the city prosecutor's office, was the first witness called. A jury of seven women and five men was impaneled this morning.

Taking of testimony was delayed until arrival of Arthur Rankin and Elenor Flynn two defendants. Their bonds were reinstated when they explained that they had been enroute here from San Francisco where they stood trial on a similar charge with another cast and were acquitted. In the local trial a previous jury disagreed.

MORTEMOTH KILLS MOTHS

The gas from Mortemoth crystals not only protects your furniture for a long time, but contact with it kills all moths, their eggs and their dangerous larvae in furniture which is already infested.

The proper method of using Mortemoth crystals is to tie them in small sacks, and to place these sacks down in the channel of the piece, as deeply as possible, behind the cushions, so that, upon expansion, the gas will spread and fill the spring units in the back and in the bottom of the piece.

When the sacks are empty, fill them again.

Legion Post, Auxiliary At Joint Meeting

One of the largest crowds ever to assemble at a Veteran's party in the Memorial hall, attended the joint social evening of the Richmond post of the American Legion, beginning at 7 o'clock which was followed by a program, given jointly by the Legion and the auxiliary last night.

Ward S. McRacken opened the program with a violin solo, which was followed by a saxophone solo by Walter Axelson; and a duet by Ed Hill and W. J. Thomson. Denny Shaw accompanied all numbers on the piano, and as a concluding number, played a piano solo.

Refreshments were then served in the downstairs banquet hall by a committee of the Auxiliary. They were assisted by several members of the Legion.

The auxiliary committee included: Mrs. Lelia Baker, Mrs. Mabel Outman, Mrs. Hazel Sears, Mrs. C. W. St. John, Mrs. Nellie Day and Mrs. Hazel Simmons.

The Legion committee consisted of W. H. Outman, chairman; Dr. L. G. Cupp, A. P. Edwards, J. E. Hill and H. J. Simmons.

What ideal's behind your telephone?

Your familiar telephone—what's behind it? 67 million miles of wiring, thousands of switchboards and central offices, 20 million other interconnected telephones, a great investment, an army of people—are these all?

More than all these, there's an ideal. This ideal is, that anyone, anywhere, shall be able to talk quickly and at reasonable cost with anyone, anywhere else.

Seventeen words! Yet they express a tremendous vision of service.

There's no standing still in the Bell System.
